An Accident at Home

One day, Peter's mum was making some soup in the kitchen. Suddenly her phone rang. 'Peter, please answer the phone!' Mum shouted. However, Peter was playing computer games in his bedroom so he answered impatiently. Answer it yourself. He was rude too.

Mum put down the pot and left the kitchen. She went to the living room to answer the phone. The water in the pot was still bailing but Mum didn't turn off the fire in the stove.

Peter was thirsty when his mum was still talking on the phone with her friend. He wanted to go to the fridge in the kitchen and get a bottle of cold cola to drink. He accidentally knocked over the pot with his arm as he passed by. The boiling water turned his arm. 'Ah!' cried Peter. Mum heard the noise and called an ambulance.

Soon an ambulance arrived. Rescuers carried Peter to the ambulance and headed to the hospital. The doctor diagnosed Peter's arm as a second degree burn. Peter needed to be hospitalized for a month. After discharge he thought he should cherish himself more. It's because if he gets hurt his homework will pile up like a mountain.
