A Fashion Show

Last night, I went with my aunt to watch the fashion show. It was held in Tsim Sha Tsui. When I went to the fashion show, there were many models. They had fabulous make ups. They also had special dresses too! I was very excited!

When the fashion show started, I saw a man with a long face, short hair, in a bow tie and a suit. He was also very handsome because his hair was stylish. His name was Andy Lau. The next model was a man with stylish hair, had blue eyes and in an elegant brown and grey suit. Not only he was stunning but also famous! There were more models coming to the stage. They all had unique clothes. I was very shocked because I had never seen clothes like the models wore, so I was very surprised.

After the fashion ended, I like Andy Lau best because he looked handsome and energetic. He was very cool too!

I felt astonished after the fashion show because some of the models' clothes were special and beautiful. Moreover, most of the clothing items in the fashion show I had never seen before. Therefore I was amazed. I hope I will go there again next year because the fashion show was outstanding and I can see more beautiful clothes!

My Favourite Festival

One of my favourite festival is Dia de los Muertos. It's like Halloween but a Mexican version. This festival is celebrated on the second of November. They celebrate their loved ones who have passed away.

On that day, people usually eat temales. Temales are wrapped in corn husk and filled with meat, cheese and sweets. They eat mole poblano, red pozole, pan de muerto and more. I really want to try these one day.

Every festival has activities. Dia de los Muertos has them too. They host a Day of the Dead Party, make paper picado that I personally like, make and decorate skulls and more. Making and decorating skulls is my favourite one. The bright colours represent the departed souls in the circle of life.

Of course there are more things to do at Dia de los Muertos! People paint their faces as calacas and calaveras. They mean skeletons and skulls. Many dress up as Catrina. It means elegantly dressed skeletons figure. Skulls made of chocolate and sugar are often as gifts to the deceased.

I think this festival is pretty nice. I especially like the costumes and how they paint their faces. I have never done that. I also want to try the food they eat. I have never tried them but heard of them.

My School Picnic

Last week, I went to Sai Kung with my classmates and teachers to have a school picnic. We went there by school bus. I felt very excited because I've never been there before.

Once we arrived, we immediately ignited a fire. We brought some food and drinks. We also brought some card games, a football and some tools for building sandcastles. It was barbecue time! We ate delicious sausages, chicken wings and fish balls. There were so yummy!

After lunch, we took some photos because of the lovely scenery. Then we played some card games and ball games. We even built a beautiful sandcastle. It was so amazing!

Time flew! We needed to go back to school in the afternoon. I was extremely exhausted and full. However, I enjoyed the picnic very much because I like playing and chatting with my classmates. Therefore, I wish to visit there again with my classmates and teachers.

How to Be a Good Child?

It is important to be a good child.

At home, we should always talk politely to our parents. We should never be around fire. We should take care of our family members.

We should behave well in public places. In the library, we should talk quietly and we shouldn't disturb other people. In a restaurant, we should speak politely to the waiter.

Helping one another is also good. When people help us, we should say "thank you". When we hurt someone, we should say "sorry". We should also say 'thank you' to someone who gives us gifts.

We should always have good manners at home and in public places. Then we will be a good child.

Last Sunday, Anna and her dad were at Yuen Long Cinema in Tin Shui Wai. They wanted to watch the film which was called Minions. They lined up to buy tickets and waited patiently. They felt happy because they were looking forward to watching this film.

Anna saw a little boy crying and two big boys laughing at him. The little boy lost his balloon so he was crying. Anna said, "Daddy, why is the little boy crying?" Dad replied, "He may lose his balloon. You see there is a balloon over there." Anna helped the little boy. Then, Anna picked up the balloon. Then Anna gave the balloon to the little boy. Then the little boy stopped crying.

Anna and her dad could not watch the film because it was too late after helping the little boy. However, Anna felt happy because she could help the little boy and the boy felt happy too.
